What does a project, initiative or enterprise look like that is aligned with the principles or elements of agroecology? How can this be measured? And: Why does it matter? Even though agroecology is key to transforming our food systems, these questions are difficult to answer.

We start an attempt and present two tools for measuring agroecology and their application in practice: The FAO TAPE and Biovision's B-ACT/ACT.

SPEAKERS

- Madeleine Kaufmann (FOAG)
- Lutz Merbold (Agroscope)
- Stefanie Pondini (Biovision) & Samira Amos (Biovision)
- Sarah Mader (SWISSAID) & Eliane Steiner (SWISSAID)

The presentations are followed by an interactive plenary discussion on challenges, opportunities and the way forward.
